NATIVE SON OF WESTERLY DEAD

Charles P. Bennett, Former Secretary of State, and Prominent Citizen, Passed Away at Brattleboro, Vt.—Office of Town Solicitor Abolished.

Charles Patrick Bennett, who has been employed at the state capital for twenty-seven years, and for fifteen years secretary of state, and therefore one of the best known citizens of Rhode Island, died Wednesday evening at his Brattleboro retreat, Brattleboro, Vt., where he has been under expert treatment for nervous disease for the past two months. Mr. Bennett was the son of Thomas K. and Mary A. Bennett, and was born in Westerly Oct. 11, 1861. He attended the public schools and at an early age began work as a cool carrier at a local quarry, and then as a weaver in a mill in Main street. When Samuel H. Cross was town clerk he employed young Bennett as a clerk and janitor. In July, 1882, through the influence of Mr. Cross, who was active in the politics of the state, Mr. Bennett secured a clerkship in the state auditor's office. By his careful and conscientious attention to details his worth was recognized, and in July, 1883, he was appointed assistant secretary of state by Secretary Joshua M. Addeman. He served as assistant through the terms of Secretaries Addeman, Edwin D. McGuinness, Samuel H. Cross and George H. Utter.

In 1888 he was elected secretary of state, receiving the largest vote on the ticket, his plurality being 1,500. Since then he has been continuously elected to the office, and at the last election his plurality was 17,336. Secretary Bennett stood very high in the Masonic fraternity, being a thirty-second degree Mason. He was also prominent in Odd Fellowship and other fraternal and social organizations. On Nov. 27, 1889, he married Irene Calvert Prince of North Andover, Mass. She died Oct. 29, 1890, leaving a daughter, Irene Prince Bennett. On Sept. 16, 1902, he married Carrie M. Briggs, a stenographer at the state capital and daughter of Franklin and Elizabeth Briggs of Vermont, who survives her husband.

Secretary Bennett is also survived by three sisters and two brothers, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Fitzpatrick of Providence, who is now on the high seas on a return trip from Europe, Mrs. John W. Sweeney of Westerly, Miss Catherine D. Bennett of Westerly, Dr. Joseph M. Bennett of Providence and Walter J. Bennett of Washington, D. C.

The Westerly town council, at its first session after election, decided not to reappoint Everett A. Kingsley, or any other man, to the office of town solicitor. There were several applicants for the place and the whole matter was referred by no appointment being made. Mr. Kingsley was continued as counsel in a case that originated during his term of office, and other E. Agard was continued in another case brought against the town. Mr. Agard has been engaged as counsel for the police committee and for the town generally, although not at the salary fixed for a town solicitor. He received the ordinary fees when called upon for advice or for action in the interests of the town.

In this way Mr. Agard performs all the duties of town solicitor, but does not get the office title. His fees for the year may amount to more than the regular salary of solicitor or may be less. Mr. Agard was town councilor during the Peabody regime, so-called, and was succeeded by Mr. Kingsley two years ago, and now Mr. Agard has taken place back again, only under different conditions.

Louis Cella, who recently erected a building on the site of the old city hall, a building at the corner of Mechanic and West Broad streets, in the semi-circle from the street wall of the railroad company property to the abutment of the street railroad bridge, will be called upon to defend his title to the land in the superior court for New London county.

Thursday afternoon, C. Hadial-Hull, of the New London law firm of C. Hadial-Hull, McGuire and Hull, representing the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, notified Mr. Cella that his building was on land owned by the railroad company and that it must be removed. Mr. Cella claims ownership of the land by purchase and will defend what he claims to be his rights and has engaged Judge Herbert W. Rathbun as his counsel.

There has been a building on this disputed property for about fifty years. Giles H. Wilcox had a blacksmith shop there, and afterwards, Sullivan, Ingham and Wilcox were located there as manufacturers of bush hammers and other tools used by stone cutters.

The property finally came into the possession of Thomas Crowley, a well-known local politician, who was designated as the mayor of Pawtucket. Mr. Crowley sold the liquor in the building and the place became known as the Old City Hall.

The administrator of Mr. Crowley's estate, John H. Ryan, of Stonington sold the property to Mr. Cella. Up to this time there were no claims under the building. One was built and then the old structure was removed and the present new one constructed. The building is semi-circular in shape and fills the space from the end of the street wall to the bridge abutment, the roof being almost on a level with the railroad tracks.

Alice Josephine Pendleton has brought a suit in damages against John R. Smethurst, through her attorneys, Hull, McGuire and Hull, and C. Hadial-Hull, the junior member of the firm was in Pawtucket Thursday afternoon, in connection with the case. The papers were served upon Mr. Smethurst by Deputy Sheriff Casey, and the complaint is returnable to the September term of the New London county superior court.

Mr. Smethurst and Mrs. Pendleton own adjoining property in Mechanic street, with the attendant riparian rights of water privileges. Mr. Smethurst has built a dock eighty-three feet long and five feet wide, and in such a direction in the Pawtucket river that Mrs. Pendleton's riparian rights are transgressed. She claims the right to reclaim the use of the water privileges.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY.

Western Methods.
Has Connecticut had wild western methods transferred to within its borders? It would seem so, judging from the hold-up on Lazy Lane last night when the conductor and motor-man of an electric car were robbed of money and watches by two armed, masked highwaymen. It was the boldest thing that ever happened in this state in the line of robbery, and it bears all the earmarks of a job by men who are familiar with the arrival and departure of cars between the Lane and Compoose lake. It is a lonesome line, and there are many places where such robbery could occur without interference. In this case, however, the highwaymen were content to clean out the conductor and motor-man, and made no effort to disturb the two passengers who upon learning of the trouble promptly alighted and made tracks for home. It is likely that if the men are captured they will be found to be a pair of cheeky mixed ale thieves. —New Britain Herald.

Local Laconics.
The Watch Hill house will remain open until Sept. 15.

Cornelius Bransford, chief of police, has returned from his vacation.

Miss Florence Baxter of Providence is the guest of Westerly friends.

Mrs. John Bishop of New London was a visitor Thursday in Westerly.

Hon. Benjamin L. L. Armstrong, mayor of New London, was a visitor in Westerly Thursday.

Michael Flynn and daughter of Westerly, and son of Dr. J. J. Flynn, are expected home from a visit in Ireland today (Friday).

Dr. Frank J. Payne, who sustained a fractured rib Wednesday, by being thrown out of the way of a fast approaching automobile, was able to go out Thursday in his carriage.

William Singer, of Pittsburg, who was one of the party injured in the automobile accident near Matamoras, Pa., is now in the hospital.

Miss Mamie Hogan, daughter of Matthew Hogan of Providence, formerly of Pawtucket, and Michael Shugrue of Boston, a former resident here, were married in Providence. Michael Deady of Westerly was best man and Miss Ellen Hogan bridesmaid.

Plans are being arranged for a celebration and illumination at Pleasant View on Labor day. The order of exercises will include a game of baseball, track events and boat races. All the cottages and tents at the beach will be tastefully decorated with flags and bunting and there will be fireworks and a general illumination in the evening.

A large touring car built at the Brown Cotton Gin works, New London, skidded near Dr. J. J. Flynn, Wednesday night and the occupants, F. G. Clemence and son and C. E. Clemence of Lynn, and B. A. Lytell, the chauffeur, were thrown out, but were only slightly injured. Two tires on one side were damaged. New tires were received from New London Thursday and the party proceeded to Lynn.

K. of C. Injunction?
That considerable dissatisfaction has arisen in the Knights of Columbus over the action of the supreme council in creating the office of historian of the order was manifested at a recent meeting by the discussions in the local council rooms. It was reported on good authority that in all probability one or more of the members of the order would be brought against the order, restraining it from paying the salary of $2,500 for a historian. Daniel Colwell, a member of the order, is the national council at Mobile. He was elected to the office of historian.

Furthermore, it is generally believed that the suit will be brought by one of the members of the order.

According to the rumor, when the directors met three months ago the question of having a historian and the proposed salary for such an office was discussed. The matter did not meet favorably with all who attended, and it is said that one of the directors made the statement then that should the order create the office, he would determine an effort to again and the office of national secretary.

Mr. Colwell, who was chosen historian, is a charter member of the order, and has held the position of national secretary ever since it was founded, about 25 years ago. The new position of historian carries a salary of $2,500 a year with it, and the office was created for Mr. Colwell on account of his personal knowledge of the members and life of the order. —N. H. Palladium.

Catching Thieves by Machine.
The cleptograph, as may be inferred from its name, is an apparatus for the recording of theft, which automatically photographs those who break into houses or stores, and accurately registers the hour of their visit.

The room to be protected by the cleptograph contains a system of wires distributed over the windows, doors, safes, etc., being connected with all objects of value.

As soon as a stranger penetrates the room, the photographic camera, under the action of some contact, involuntarily and unconsciously touched by the person, will direct itself automatically towards the contact, that is towards the thief, and after having opened the objective shutter, will illuminate the magnesium powder intended to supply the flashlight and again close the objective shutter. The view has been taken, then exchange the film, get a new portion of powder ready and register the exact time.

The whole of these divers operations is completed in less time than is required to describe it, the apparatus being immediately ready for taking another view, as soon as the intruder touches some other contact, and so on. Like an invisible detective, the cleptograph thus follows any motions of the thief, in order to prepare a set of authentic and irrefutable documents, to assist the police in their search for the criminal.

The current required for working the apparatus is either that of an ordinary battery or after due reduction through proper resistances, the current derived from the electric mains. Being enclosed in a box entirely hidden from the burglar, the cleptograph cannot possibly be harmed by the latter. —Technical World Magazine.

A Boston Jokelet.
"There's a soldier, Nellie?"
"Yes, Ma'am, but where is the hand-organ?" —Boston Transcript.

One of the world's successful women who believe that where there is a will there is a way is the Princess Waldemar of Denmark, wife of the king's youngest brother. This enterprising woman is virtually at the head of a large steamship company which she founded and which is constantly extending its lines.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY.

Pointedly Consistent.
At any rate the results are consistent, brutally consistent, in showing decency. Voting indefensible gratuities of $300 each to reporters and waiting an oyster commission at $100 per day and $10,000 for expenses is exactly what we expected from that body. Nevertheless its conduct is a deep disgrace to the state. —Bristol Press.
